To The Honorable Dickon Mitchell

Prime Minister of Grenada

Office of the Prime Minister, St. George's

Mr. Prime Minister,

I write to you from the Spice Isle, a nation that has long prided itself on beauty, stability, and the warmth of its people. As we navigate the middle of 2026, the global winds are shifting, and Grenada finds itself at a unique juncture. We are a small island state with a massive spirit, yet we face the daunting reality of external climate pressures and the need for a modern, sustainable economy. You entered office with a vision of transformation, and as we look forward, the citizens of Grenada are eager to see that vision take root in the soil of our daily lives.

We are a people of immense potential, yet we are constantly reminded of our vulnerability to forces beyond our borders—be it the fluctuations of the global tourism market or the increasing severity of tropical weather systems. We need a government that acts not just as an administrator of our present, but as a bold protector of our future. Our farmers, who hold the secrets of our spice heritage, and our youth, who are looking to integrate into the global digital landscape, are the engines of our progress. They require a state that invests in their adaptability and safeguards their opportunities.

Mr. Prime Minister, your mandate is to prove that a small nation can be a global leader in resilience. We need to see more than just policy; we need to see the practical implementation of climate-smart infrastructure that protects our coasts and secures our water supply. We need a healthcare system that provides world-class service to every parish, and an education system that bridges the gap between our traditional identity and the demands of the 21st-century economy.

We are tired of the old ways of doing things that leave us reactive to crises rather than prepared for them. We need a transparent, meritocratic, and inclusive government that ensures the wealth generated by our blue economy and tourism sector is invested back into the people. Restore the trust in our institutions, simplify the path for our entrepreneurs, and lead us with the courage that our ancestors displayed.

Grenada is more than just a destination; it is our home and our future. Make that future secure, prosperous, and defined by the strength of our own hands.

With the hope of a patriot,

A Concerned Grenadian

Sovereign Performance Audit: Grenada (June 2026)

Sector

Score

Summary

Political Stability

4.5

High; consistent democratic process and strong public consensus.

Economic Development

3.5

Stable growth; heavy reliance on tourism and blue economy initiatives.

Social Infrastructure

3.0

Functional, but faces ongoing needs for modernization in health and digital services.

National Resilience

4.0

Strong; proactive stance on climate adaptation and regional integration.

Final Verdict: 3.75 / The Sustainable Islander.

Grenada is performing well compared to its peers. The mandate for the remainder of 2026 is "diversification"—moving beyond traditional tourism and agriculture to cultivate a more robust digital and knowledge-based economy, ensuring the island remains resilient against external shocks.
